SUMMARY

I enjoy delving into programming challenges and solving them with cutting-edge technologies. Abdelouahab is a full-stack web developer (frontend more than backend) with React/JavaScript, I spent most of my career working with Javascript and React Framework and focusing on online software development and Graphic Design, also in UI/UX design.

My areas of expertise include problem-solving, domain-driven design, responsive design principles and Model View Controller (MVC) approaches of code organization. I've used javascript, React.js, Express.js, SQL (MySQL), NoSQL (MongoDB) and Github thus far.

In addition, I am a freelance tech content writer with experience in copywriting and creating tech content.
